Excerpt: .Then spoke the Ape: My lord, I love him, and have done so this long while, and I well bear in mind one great and good deed he did in your sight, for which you gave him thanks, though I dare say you think not of it at this far time. Let me bring it to your mind. Two years since there came to this Court a man and a snake to have a point of law heard, and to get a rule. It was in this wise: The snake broke through a hedge, when he was caught by the neck with a snare, so that there was no way to get free with his life. A man came by at the time, when the snake told him to help him in his ill luck. The man, who was kind at heart, felt for...
